CORRECT UTILITY SUITS; IN KNITTED OUTERWEAR

GOOD taste directs (and fashion approves) that women go about the ordinary affairs of life, outside their homes, in tailored clothes—the their warrer heed not have on their minds at all, after they are once put on. It happens that these, the least ostentatious of women's belongings, require the greatest amount of care and work on the part of their designers and makers, and are entitled to as much consideration on the part of every woman who aspires to dress correctly.

FAULTLESSLY TAILORED SUITS

The utility suit is the mainstay of the wardrobe, and must be made of reliable goods. It achieves distinction, not by differing in the style from other suits, but by expert workmanship and faultiess tailoring. When successfully made it is a masterplees in the art of dress, and it is economy to buy a good suit, even if one must save in other directions, in order to do so.

This spring has been unusually generous in the variety and attractiveness, of its new "tailleurs," bringing two and three plees suits, in old and new favorites among fabrics, and making charming departure in colors. In the three-plees cuits, a cape or coat accompanies a dress, usually with bodice of crepe in a color contrasting with the skirt and coat.

IN SPORT FROCKS THE EVER POPULAR BOX COAT

French Tweeds Vie With British and American Fabries.

Navy Blue Serge, Poiret Twill or Tri-cotine Make Stronger Appeal Than Usual.

We can find good French precedent for the use of sport frocks and suits of tweed, and French tweeds of lovely texture have been imported to compete with tweeds of British or American production. The idea of a tweed costume all in the same material does not appeal forcibly to the mind of the French lesigner. He prefers the other striped or checked with the same mixture and some contrasting tone. He then makes a skirt of the plain fabric and a jacket or cape of the check, or he uses the check or stripe for the skirt and the plain material for the jacket. Often a simply cut cape takes the place of the coat and in place of the skirt is a chemise frock. So among the imported French tweeds there is almost always a plain fabric and one of stripes or checks. A rose and gray-checked tweed will be used with a rose mixture tweed. There are green and tan mixtures, gray and black and blace and tan mixtures, gray and black green and tan mixtures, gray and black green and tan mixtures, gray and bines and blue and tan.

Navy blue in serge, poiret twill or tricotine has come back this spring with even stronger appeal than usual.

The suits or coat frecks of this color, as they were shown at recent collections of French-made frocks, almost invariably were greeted with enthu-slasm. Almost every woman experi-ences the distinct comfort of being smart and appropriately dressed for spring days when she takes off the heavier raiment of winter for a frock or suit of this description. Very much admired have been the cont frocks of navy blue serge, many of which have shown a sparing use of red. These show the French penchant for drawing

The Draped Turban Holds Place.

A hat that is so generally approved that it has become almost a staple style, varies only a trifle from season to season. This is the draped turban. the skirt quite snug at the back below the waistline, and there is often a blousing of the material at the back so as to accentuate hip slenderness.

Renewing Gown.

Possibly you are one of the women who bought a one-plece serge. If it isn't worn out and you're looking for some way to bring it up to date, have it cleaned and then buy some canton crepe of a harmonizing or contrasting tone and put a bias plece about eight inches wide from the neck to hem line at the side where the gown fastens. This cascade effect is being used on the newest frocks.

DESIGNING FOR STOUT WOMEN*

Large Figures May Now Be as Smart in Appearance as Those of Siender Type.

Length of line is the thing sought by designers of apparel for the "stout" figure. Regardless of the fact that a casual glance at the feminine passer by on any smart thoroughfare would lead one to conclude that the woman with a developed figure was decidedly a thing of the past, it has been claimed by firms specializing in clothes for "stouts" that actual statistics prove more than 50 per cent of the feminine population belong in the "stout" class. Time was when a woman of larger Time was when a woman of larger than normal size dared not select any sort of a plaid frock or even separate skirt, when materials printed in large designs or patterns were as carefully avoided, and the poor unfortunate was advised to always adhere to dark colors, so that she might be as inconspicuors, so that she might be as inconspicuous as possible.

Style designing has reached such a stage of perfection that these things are no longer necessary, and the large woman may now be just as smart in appearance as her sister with the stringbean figure.

A very sienderizing dress was made up in a navy and lighter blue canton crepe, the lighter colored fabric being let into the frock in the form of panels cabochons.

The same style idea might be carried out effectively in a printed foulard or crepe de chine, with a plain color material forming the panels.

The whole idea in designing clothes for the stout figure is to secure length of line and to avoid a nipped-in appearance at the waist, thus accentuating hips and bust.

Outfit That Goes Well With Sport Wear Can Be Made in Next to No Time.

A smart, colored scarf never comes amiss, and one made of a fifty to sixty-inch wide wool fabric can be made in next to no time, and goes well with sport wear. Choose some loosely woven fabric of a bright tint, only half a yard will be needed if of the width mentioned. Cut the scarf about fifteen inches wide or use the full eighteen inches. Select some wool of the same color or some contrasting tint, and all around the edge of the scarf do a loose buttonhole with it, placing the stitches close enough together to give firmness to the edge. Then at each end of the scarf make a fringe of the wool, knotting it through the material. end of the scarf make a fringe of the wool, knotting it through the material. Use a large-eyed wool needle and draw four threads of wool at a time through the material. Eight threads or the quotie of four will be sufficient for one knotting of the wool. Then cut off these threads to a length of about to the scarf!

THE SMART SCARF AND TAM four inches. And that is all there is to the scarf!

A tam-o'-shanter to match is smart and not hard to make just "out of one's head" without a pattern. Use for trimming at one side two tassels of the wool used on the scarf.

Gray material with a bright wool trimming is a good combination, or gray wool to trim a bright material.

Knitted Dresses and Capes.
Knitted dresses and knitted capes of wool show no sign of stepping from the paths of fashion. And now the silk the paths of fashion. And now the silk inited things for summer are beginning to appear. They look loveler than ever, for since color is the thing, no fabric shows subtle colorings and shadings in the same respiendent way as do knitted silks. There is so much variety of weave whereby to display patterns and to bring out colorings.

Sashes Are Featured. Frocks of checked silk gingham are ombined with silk or organdie-trimmed combined with silk or organdle-trimmed sashes. Many sashes are being worn, some of brocaded ribbon, others of plain ribbon or silk, finished with tassels.

Eggs, Southern Style.—Cook six eggs hard, and shell. Boil two onions and chop fire. Prepare a white sauce, using four tablespoonfuls of flour and two tablespoonfuls of butter; when well blended add two cupfuls of milk salt and pepper to taste. Lay the eggs in the sauce and serve all hot.

Chili Sandwich.—Take one cupful of tomato paste or soup reduced until thick, one-half cupful of vinegar, one teasponful of pickling spices, one-half cupful of chopped onion, the same of green pepper, one-tablespoonful of corpstarch, one cupful of chopped meat or one-half cupful of pendut butter. Cook the spices and vegetables in the soup, thicken with cornstarch, add it diluced with a little cold water and cook five minutes. Cool, add meat or butter and spread on slices of bread.

Cottage Cheese Sandwich.—Take a tablespoonful of minced chives, add to one cupful of cottage cheese which has been seasoned and enriched with a tablespoonful of cream. Use brown bread buttered, add a tablespoonful of chopped cherries and spread with the cheese. Be in Demand.

The frayed or fringed skirt has led even neckwear into the temptation of raveling its edges. When ratine is the material, and rust white the color combination, the effect is very smart and the attractiveness of the sport or tallored suit is greatly enhanced by the addition.

Ratine waistcoats are quite in keeping with the character of tweed and homespun and should be in considerable demand as long as these suits are worn. Pongee is another practical material for vestee styles, says Dry Goods Economist. Its neutral color assures adaptability and its laundering quality is a strong selling point. With the well-favored dark blue suit, the pongee accessory is in very good taste and good style.

"ON EASY STREET"

Women "Farmerettes" Make Money in Western Canada.

Many Are Taking Advantage of th Opportunity Offered by the Fer-tile Land and Fine Climate.

In many parts of Western Canada are to be found women owning and running farms for themselves, and what is more, making them pay. May Hazlett, an English girl, who lived on a farm in the Touchwood hills, in Saskatchewan, for the past four years, looking after her stock and cultivating her land, is one of these. The farm was originally her brother was homestead, at which time Miss Hazlett was a stenographer. Her brother was killed while fighting with the Canadian forces at Vimy Ridge. Neighbors advised Miss Hazlett to sell the farm, but she decided that she was tired of the "eternal pounding" and became a farmerette.

decided that she was tired of the "eternal pounding" and became a farmerette.

Mrs. Mary J. Blackburn, a pioneer woman farmer of Alberta, has just added 160 acres to her farm near Hardisty. Coming from Eastern Canada, Mrs. Blackburn homesteaded a quarter section in 1902. She had two Hoisteln helfers, a bull, and $17 in cash. She lived in a tent the first summer and in a sod shack in the winter. Her first crop put her, as she tells the story, "on Easy street." In ten years she had a herd of 60 pure-bred Holstein cattle and was operating a prosperous dairy. A fine residence has supplanted the sod hut. "I milked my cows, raised my cattle, cut hay and stacked it all by myself," said Mrs. Blackburn. "I started on hare prairie with no money, and made good. I worked hard, but the experience was wonderful."

It has generally been conceded that farming is a man's job. It has long been considered that a woman's place on the farm was in the house, with a few attendant duties, looking after the chickens and the garden. But times are changing.

Demonstrative of the present feminine initiative, there are two young indies farming extensively and with good profit too, in Western Canada. Some years ago a family located a 160 acre farm in the Oak Lake district, Manitoba. Later the father died, leaving his two daughters and aged wife a mortgaged quarter section. Instead of Manitoba. Later the father died, leaving his two daughters and aged wife a mortgaged quarter section. Instead of selling the effects and moving to town to take employment, the girls decided to work the place.

While the mother looked after the household duties the daughters did the farm work. They did the plowing, harrowing, seeding, haying, harvesting, stocking, feeding and other farm operations. Except at threshing time, the getting out of wood, the help of man was never sought. Instead of a 100-acre place, with seven horses and ten cattle, which they started with, they have a 1,120-acre farm, twenty-five head of heavy horses and nearly a hundred head of cattle, mostly pure-bresh. Their farm buildings, equipment and well-kept fields would be objects of pride to the owners in any country.

Their accomplishment has not only

Their accomplishment has not only been profitable but pleasant, and they been profitable but pleasant, and they have enjoyed every home advantage. They are two entertaining and bright girls, and have all the feminine charm of womanhood. Their manlike occupation has not given them a masculine character or appearance, as some of the older generations might imagine. Their gallant struggle for success signifies the truth in the off-repeated maxim of Western Canada, "A little assistance and the soil, with its naturassistance and the soil, with its natur al richness and God's sunshine will

Friendships of Youth

There are few things that affect our dives as deeply as the friendships we make in youth. Those are the formative years, and the closer the friendship, the greater the influence. Those are our imitative years and we imitate those whom we love or admire. Character then is as plastic as clay in the potter's hand. Would that every young person were blessed with one staunch and true friend, whose influence would always be for truth and righteousness. The best friend of all is our Lord, and next to Him are those who take Him as their guide and master.

GAS PROBLEM IS ONE THAT GROWS

Fluid Distilled Today Contains Much That Used to Be Known as Kerosene.

ENGINEERING SHOWS RESULTS

ntake Manifolds Are Being Designed to Give Just' Right Amount of Heat to Vaporize Last Drop of Gasoline.

Every motor car manufacturer is of-fering in his 1922 product what he considers an excellent device for get-ting the greatest possible power kit out of the kind of gas a car has to out of the kind of gas a car has to swallow these days.

The poor-gas problem is one which has grown with the motor industry. The first few "horseless carriages" puffed along on a fluid that was so volatile under ordinary atmospheric conditions that it was readily combustible. Now that the use of cars has increased to the extent that we has increased to the extent that we have forgotten the "horseless car riage" and speak of the "horseless riage" and speak of the "horseless age," the fremendous increase in the demand for gasoline must be met by cutting lower into the crude oil.

cutting lower into the crude oil.

Gasoline distilled today contains much that was known as high grade kerosene a few years ago. It is an indication of the progress made in cars that they hum over the hills on the fuel and sputter as little as they do on cold days. That's where the "more miles a gallon" engineering is showing results.

Proper combustion, in addition to its results in acceleration and mileage, affects lubrication because unburned raw gasoline leaking into the crank case thins the oil.

A Worthy Ambition.

A Worthy Ambition.

The ambition of the modern motor engineer is to introduce into the combustion chamber the most rapidly burning fuel possible. When the fuel enters in drops only the external surface of the drop is exposed to the spark. It is necessary to evaporate the drops into a vapor before combustion is complete. If fuel can be reduced to a true gas, that is still better. Even with the best carburetor now obtainable the gasoline is only partly vaporized.

It would be simple to apply enough heat to make the fluid into a true gas, but another difficulty enters here. As the gas is heated it expands, it becomes "thinner," there is less power in a given volume, the combustion chamber is not getting as many heat units as it should.

Intake manifolds are being designed now to give just the right amount of Intake manifolds are being designed now to give just the right amount of heat to vaporize the last drop of gasoline without overheating the vapor. Heat usually is applied only to the liquid fuel. One of the two main methods used permits the liquid to touch a hot plate over which the vaporized fuel passes without coming into contact. Another series of hot spot devices uses a settling chamber into which the heavier particles drop to be heated.

Beset With Difficulties.

Most hot devices consider another trait of the stubborn little drop of gasoline—clinging to the dry wall of the intake manifold and thus sneakgasoline—clinging to the dry wall of the intake manifold and thus sneaking into the combustion chamber without being vaporized. The most popular way of off-setting that is to shape the intake manifold so that there is a sharp corner in the internal wall. The unsuspecting drop of gas creeps along the wall until it reaches the corner. There the rush of vaporized gas into the manifold gets a sweep at it. It is as if the gas drop had stepped around the edge of a skyscraper inte space.

Applications of these general principles in this year's cars include a combination manifold and carburetor with dampers for regulating the supply of heat, a corrugated interior surface of a manifold heated from the exhaust, an intake passage surrounded almost entirely by the exhaust, an manifold arrangement controlled by a damper which shunts exhaust heat around the intake, thermostatic carburetor control, a "fuelostatic carburetor control, a "fuel er" which heats gasoline and all from the carburetor and makes enter the combustion chamber as dry gas, and many other devices.

WHEEL ALIGNMENT IS OF MUCH IMPORTANCE

Tire Injury Caused by Wheels Out of True.

First Symptom of Something Wrong Is Rapid Wear In Center of Tread—Tubes Should Receive Careful Tests.

The time is at hand when car owners give their cars a thorough overhauling in preparation for summer use. The attention required for tires in this spring renovation is very limited and simple.

One of the first and most ways.

One of the first and most important is to get the front wheels into proper alignment. Bad alignment is one of the alignment. Bad alignment is one of the principal causes of tire injury. The first symptom of misalignment is rapid wear in the center of the tread. Examination of the alignment should include an investigation to see that there are no loose bearings, for a loose bearing means a wobbly wheel.

Examine the casings of tires for cuts. If cuts are filled with heal-acut dough the cuts will not grow bigger.

Tubes should receive special attention, for once they have been placed inside the casings they are forgotten. Test the tubes for slow leaks. Put new plungers in the valves, even if the old ones appear satisfactory. The rubber washers in the plunger become stiff and hard after a time and it is good policy to change them at least once a year.

The pump should be tested, especial-a year.

The pump should be tested, especially the rubber tubing and the connections. If the leather piston head in your hand pump has dried up it may be softened by a liberal application of vaseline. If it is gone beyond help you can get a new leather at a supply store. The same advice as to inspection of connections applies in the case of a mechanical pump attached to the engine. See that the pump is well oiled, especially in the cylinder, but avoid excess oil, as it may find its way avoid excess oil, as it may find its way into the inner tube.

ODD CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

About a hundred years elapsed be tween the reformation under Hezekiah and that of Josiah. Some time during this time the book of God's law had been lost. Two wicked kings had reigned in this interval. The Lord had given Hezekiah much wealthe His son Manasseh, coming into possession of his father's property, and being ungodly, would naturally neglect the Bible, if not purposely try to put if from sight. Those who do not obey the law of God, are usually interested in putting it out of sight.

1. The Book of the Law Found (vv. 14-17). Might Have Been Effective in 1742 but One Would Hesitate to Recommend It.

Rheumatism is associated with a greater number of superstitions than any other complaint.

In Hohand there are people who believe that a potato begged or stolen is an effective preventive, while chestnuts are said to possess the same efficacy.

efficacy.

In the Midlands of England the right forefoot of a hare, carried in the pocket, is regarded as a fine amulet, and the Cornish villager is apt to put his trust in a piece of the wood of the mountain ash. 1. The Occasion (v. 14). It was while repairing the temple during Josiah's reformation that the law was discovered.

Perhaps the strangest "cure" for rheumatism is that which is to be found in the "Compleat Housewife, or Accomplished Gentlewoman's Com Accomplished Gentlewoman's Companion"—a work published in 1742:
"Let the party take of the finest glazed gunpowder as much as a large thimble may hold; wet it in a spoon with milk from the cow, and drink a good half-pint of warm milk after it; be covered warm dn, bed and sweat; give it fasting about seven in the morning, and take this nine or ten mornings together."

You naturally feel secure when you know that the medicine you are about to take is absolutely pure and contains no harmful or habit producing drugs.

Such a medicine is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

The same standard of purity, strength and excellence is maintained in every bottle of Swamp-Root.

It is scientifically compounded from vegetable herbs.

It is not a stimulant and is taken in teaspoonful doses.

It is not recommended for everything. It is nature's great helper in relieving and overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles.

A sworn statement of purity is with every bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-

Siump in Microscopes.

The general depression in the optical trade is being felt very severely by British microscope makers, most of whom are working with reduced staffs. Some are only working alternate weeks. This is partly due, no doubt, to overproduction during the war, when a large number of microscopes were supplied to the order of the government, but even taking this into account the demand is now abnormally small. With hospitals poverty is a natural excuse, but in other cases, such as that of schools, it is not so easy to explain why so few new instruments are being purchased. According to one large firm the great majority of microscopes now purchased are for purposes connected with mineralogy.—Manchester Guardian.

"The ideal of beauty and the mark of gentility for a woman used to be small feet, the compression of which was not imposed by law but was a craze of fashion, as slender waists were at one time in Engiand. Several accounts are given as to the origin of the custom of foot-binding, but probably the following is the correct one:

"It is said that Yao Niang, the beautiful concubine of Emperor Li Yu (975 A. D.), was light and graceful in all her movements, being able to dance with ease and elegance. She gave so much pleasure to her lord and master that he caused to be made golden lily flowers with movable petals for Yao Niang to walk on from her apartments to the palace. To gratify the emperor still further, she compressed her feet, in order that they might look like a lily bud unopened, until they were there inches long."

Institutions in Europe and the United for Investigators

The first "guide book" of what may be popularly called the germ "yoo" has just been issued by the Britishs Medical research council. The body, as previously announced, hit on the happy idea of making a national collection of living germs of disease swithat any doctor or investigator requiring some particular germ for lifs work might be able to get it at once, allve and active.

There are similar collections at the Pasteur institute, Paris, at the Museum of Natural History, New York, and at Vienna. The British collection is housed at the Lister institute, and fresh additions of new "struins" and "forms" are constantly being added.

The catalogue gives the name of each germ, the name of its donor, and they are of the gift.

10 Dedicate New Bridge
The Washington Memorial Bridge will be dedicated on May 30th, to the Delaware men and women who served in the World War. Recognition is also given to those who served our Country through all its earlier history.

through all its earlier history.

The names of the 261 men and one woman of Delaware who lost their lives during the World War are inscribed or one of the four bronze tablets which wili be unveiled at the dedication exer

From many points of view this Me morial Bridge, spanning as it does our famous Brandywine, has a tremendous significance in the history of Delaware and of the Nation. It will doubtless stand as the great Delaware Memorial for many generations to come.

The Bridge Commission has accepted a plan whereby the dedication of this Memorial Bridge will be marked by such ceremonies as will stir the minds and hearts of our people of all Dela-ware to greater appreciation of our in-debtedness to preceding generations and to our Delaware men who lost their lives in the World War.
